America is journeying through untouched regions by challenging the fathomless mysteries of space

"A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step." America bas, indeed, taken that step

Americans today are recognizing the challenges of the twentieth century with untiring enthusiasm. We live in an age of analysis. For no longer are we satisfied with traditional answers to nature's phenomena, rather with an open mind, we question them. America faces challenges both dangerous and unknown. But any dangerous spot is tenable if brave men will make it so and the unexplainable is always subject to patience and contemplation. Americans with courage and spirit have begun to tap the depths, explore the stars, eradicate disease and conquer the deserts. They comprise a nation in motion, a nation challenging the unconquered, a nation carving out its destiny. The students of Salesian are now preparing to share in America's expectations.

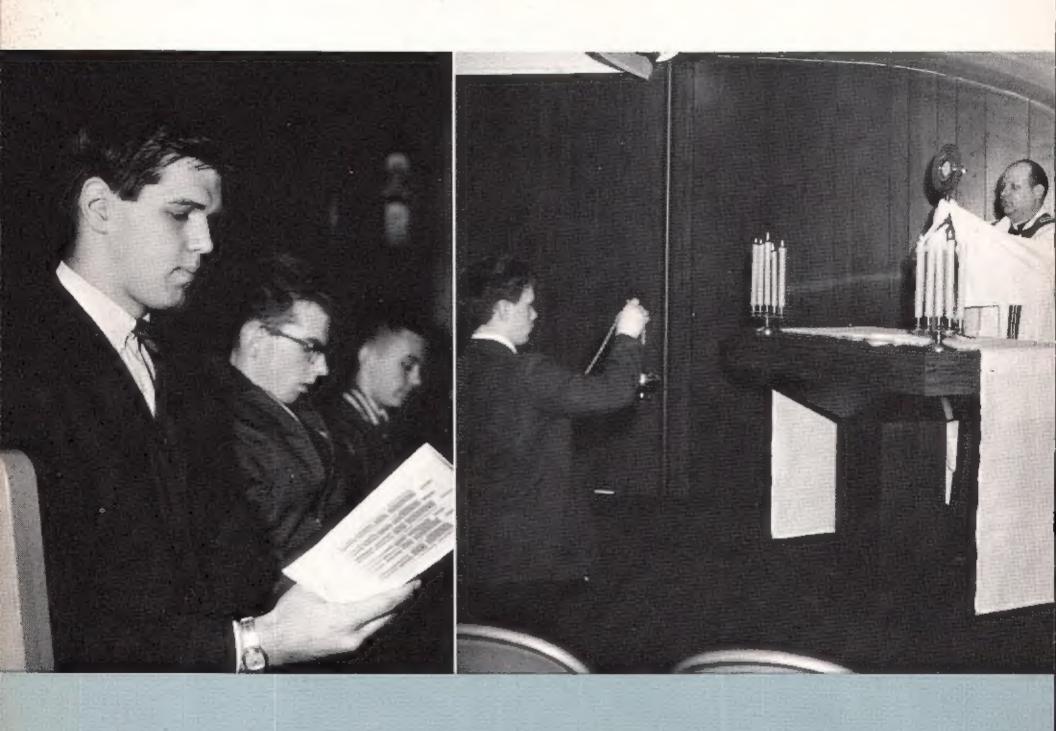

Salesian rehearses students for their noblest challenge, life

Within these tired walls are over five-hundred young men who come from one-hundred and thirteen widely separated parishes to attain an education which ranks number one among the schools of the inner-city. Although the building is old the atmosphere thrives with modernism. We must not fail to remember that the building does not educate the student. The story of this time-honored structure we call Salesian is essentially the story of its teachers, the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales. They strive to build an ideal man by challenging the student's intellectual, moral and physical potential. The classrooms constantly echo with the knowledge of a welleducated faculty passing to eager young minds. The halls will always be crowded and noisily reflecting the laughter and sadness of each student. We come to Salesian as boys, disorderly and with fantasies, but leave as men, destined and with ideas. Every student leaves a part of himself behind as he leaves Salesian. It is a part molded in time and fashioned with discipline remaining within these walls which grow old but never die. Salesian is our home away from home; it prepares us for tomorrow's challenges.

We must use time as a tool not as a couch. The four short years spent at Salesian are used to fashion and mold an ideal man, a man of ideas

Salesian students come to know and gratify God's existence

We must carry out God's Will in everything we do; then only can we be certain to fulfill the challenge of gaining eternal happiness Many men have dared to challenge the existence of God and ultimately they failed to reach their goal. God cannot and is not to be challenged by the very creatures He created. Here at Salesian students learn that by merely accepting the existence of God is a challenge in itself. It is a challenge which results in answering such questions as, Why God created the universe?, Why, indeed, am I here? and Where am I headed for? These questions, they realize, can only be answered through faith and hope in God and sincere love of Jesus Christ. At Salesian every class begins with a direction of intention to God asking Him to give us grace "to conduct ourselves in it in a manner most pleasing to Him". Once a week the students attend Mass. Three days out of the year are spent on a solemn retreat where each student pleads with God to help him find his vocation in life. Thus, our life at Salesian is Godcentered as is the life of all creation.

They strain to become not men of success but men of value for young, untaught minds

Behind every door there lies a surmountable challenge. To the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales this challenge is the Christian education of youth. Before approaching this door a young man must first carry love in his heart and an untiring desire in his will. Then climbing the vital steps of language, science, psychology and theology and putting on the robes of St. Francis de Sales he stands at the doorstep. The key which unlocks this challenge is forged in an unselfish fire and hammered on the anvil of perseverance with a pounding comprehension of the student's needs. The lock which holds this door shut is the youth's mind, intricately formed with his desires, depressions and rascalities. It is molded into the oak of ignorance which swings on the gilded hinges of time and opened firmly with patience. This is the challenge the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales accepted. It is a challenge from God.

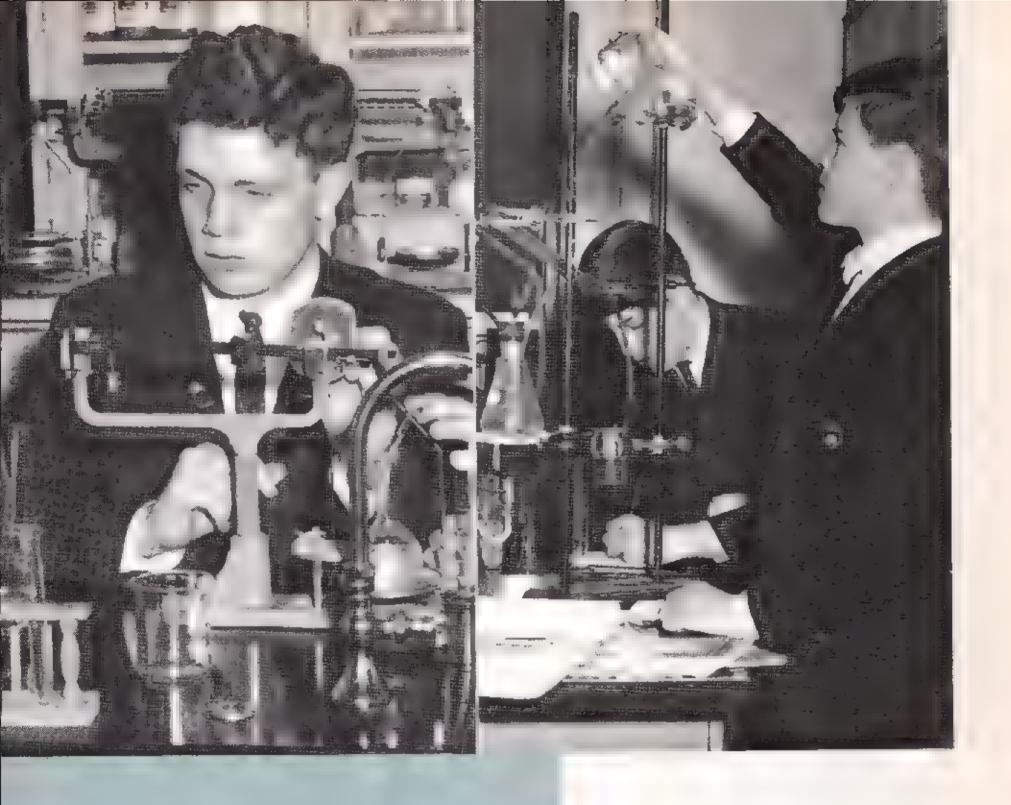

The Oblates know the meaning of the word "challenge"; as priests and brothers they have accepted a perpetual one from God

Imponderable in dimension and beauty,

God created scientific world from an unequaled blueprint

The atomic age was born as a result of modern man's laboring and toying with the atom. The unraveling of one of nature's most prolonged mysteries has now begun. In seeking answers in this perplexing exploration, new concepts of mathematics and the physical sciences have been devised. Catholic education recognizes this fact and sets up its curriculum accordingly. Salesian students are well prepared to face the fresh challenges this untrodden field of science will extend to them. When faced with a challenge Salesian students search for truth. In the lab Salesian's scientists learn to rejoice in hope but also to be patient in tribulation. They are taught to invoke the wonders of science instead of its terrors. However, most important they come to realize the power and beauty of God's designs. Thus it becomes self-evident that He has set an infinite challenge before us. He has given man the universe.

Science is a book of quest.

Research opens it; experiment is reading the pages and discovery is turning a chapter

Intense study, self-discipline and

Ignorance is the night of the mind, a night without moon or stars determination...this will build a solid fortress of wisdom

Looking through the lengthy pages of history, we come upon a time when noble kings and princes once built great stone castles in defense against their enemies These fortresses, thought to be impregnable, stood as symbols of might until man with his power of reasoning invented weapons that could crumble them. Thus we see that absolute power is seated in the mind and not in a formidable bulwark or an inexhaustible army. Build a mighty fortress of wisdom and you have built a fortress which will stand in time against all enemies. To a Salesian knight the greatest enemy is the army of fear. Fear, he knows, causes man to act irrationally because fear stems from ignorance. His four years at Salesian will be spent in mustering an army of wisdom, tempered by intense study and disciplined by his own satisfaction. His troops will be the sciences and languages and their commander, Determination. This titanic force of wisdom can challenge any legion of fear.

Teamwork, respect, and discipline is formula for success

To say that you know and understand your fellow man, first say that you laughed and cried with him Here at Salesian the most important lesson every new student learns is that he must get along with fellow classmates if he is to succeed in school, indeed, if he is to succeed in this world. No man can live alone. By his very nature man needs someone to talk with, to share his problems and to laugh with. Locked up inside, his ideas, opinions and expressions serve only himself. The Oblates encourage participation in extracurricular activities. Whether on the football field, in the yearbook room, on stage, at a student council meeting, or at a rally, teamwork, respect, and discipline is the formula for success and achievement. Here a student's hidden talents are unmasked and his virtues are on trial. Boy challenging boy, not in a duel to death, but instead a duel to life, a life of compatibility, results in boys becoming men. A boy is half a student if he shuns his firmest challenge - man.

Oblates of St. Francis de Sales travel a burdensome road of life in preparing tomorrow's youth

The young man who puts on the robes of St. Francis de Sales does so with the understanding that his path through life will be a hazardous one, as all paths are. With his knapsack of knowledge and his staff of fortitude he travels a road laden with young and untaught minds, souls lacking spiritual food and consciences of moral indignation. There are endless mountains of temptation to climb and winding rivers of despair to cross. He will pass through impoverished villages and prosperous cities. He will teach the intelligent and illiterate and preach to young and old. He will be paid with words of gratitude, a smiling face or occasionally a meal. Each day will end with something accomplished, a few frustrations and misunderstandings and a little exhaustion for the purpose of preparing souls for Almighty God.

of a student, a few words of gratitude . . . this is their reward

(Below) The Very Reverend John J. Conmy, O.S.F.S., serves as the Provincial of the new Wilmington-Philadelphia Province. Prior to the establishment of this new domain, Father Conmy was in charge of all Oblate communities throughout the United States. (Above) The Very Reverend William J. Ward, O.S.F.S., now serves as the head of the newly founded Toledo-Detroit Province. In his long termed service to the Oblates of Saint Francis de Sales, Father Ward has held numerous positions vital to his community.

Growth of the Oblate

Archbishop John F. Dearden, D.D., the spiritual director for the entire Archdioceses of Detroit has always kept pace with the changing times, in adopting new ecclesiastical legislation benefiting his Catholics here

The Most Reverend William D Buckley, O.S F.S., guiding his community under the title of Superior General of the Oblates, now resides in Rome, Italy, Father pays yearly visits to many of his Oblate schools.

community necessitates major split in province

Salesian's secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Conner, and her assistant, Mrs. Anne Arnold, have worked together in the school's office for a good many years. Then acceptance of numerous responsibilities is greatly appreciated by the entire school.

Since its founding in 1903, the American Province of the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales have flourished without pause to a point far surpassing the hopes of its forefathers. Now, in 1966, a new chapter has been initiated into the Oblates' history. The old American Province, formerly under the direction of the Very Reverend John J. Conmy, O.S.F.S., has been divided into an Eastern and a Western Province. The Eastern, or Wilmington-Philadelphia Province, under Father Conmy's guidance, includes all the Oblate communities located in the Archdioceses of New Orleans, Washington and Philadelphia and the dioceses of Allentown, Harrisburg, Raleigh, Richmond and Wilmington. The Western, or Toledo-Detroit Province, headed by the Very Reverend William J. Ward, O.S.F.S., includes all Oblate communities of the Archdiocese of Detroit and the Dioceses of Buffalo. Eric, Lansing, Oklahoma City Tulsa, Salt Lake City and Toledo. With the adoption of this "divided labor" system, it is hoped that the Oblates will be able to extend their activities throughout a greater part of the United States.

In accepting the sober duties of principal, Father Paul F. Grehl, O.S.F.S., faced the demanding task of managing the school's policies. With open-minded deliberation, Father Grehl works diligently for the betterment of Salesian High School.

The Very Reverend Joseph J. McGoldrick, O S.F.S., one of the original six Oblates who founded Salesian, now serves as Superior of the Oblate community here in Detroit. Father McGoldrick also teaches Traditional Trigonometry and Algebra to the underclassmen.

New administrators

Father Clark T. Kelley, O.S.I.S., has been appointed the disciplinarian this year. In addition to these numerous responsibilities placed upon him, Father also teaches second year religion and first and second year Spanish.

Father James F. Bradley, O.S.F.S., the junior class moderator, has been given charge of the '67 Saldet. In addition to teaching English and public speaking, Father Bradley also coaches the school's Genesian and Forensic competitors.

Brother James Rago, O.S.F.S., teaches ancient history to the Freshmen and moderates the Student Council as well as the swimming team Being the guidance counselor, Brother Rago is always willing to sacrifice his time for those students who seek information concerning their future plans.

cultivate atmosphere of growth and development

Being the senior class moderator, Father Joseph W. Coyle, O.S.F.S., acts as the organizer and co-ordinator of all senior year activities such as the prom and ring ceremonics. Father also instructs the senior class in religion.

Newly-appointed school registrar, Father Francis J Pileggi. O.S.F.S., instructs the freshmen in Latin and guidance. In addition to these duties, Father directs the singing of hymns at Holy Mass and other liturgical functions.

Father Grehl heads Salesian Oblates during prosperous year of change

It was once stated that if an organization ceases to grow, it will soon cease to exist. The faculty that administer to Salesian are a group of men who possess an acute awareness of this fact. Under the highly experienced, guiding hand of the new principal, Father Grehl; and his assistant principal, Father Orosz, the school has taken great steps towards securing a more successful future. New policies involving facultystudent relations have been adopted as well as many new projects which have been imitiated. Salesian has not stood still but, through the efforts and talents of the Oblates here, has grown and prospered. Yet this idea of growth and development extends beyond the school; it centers itself around each individual. Representing Jesus Christ, the greatest of all teachers, the Oblates have endeavored to impart their knowledge upon the developing minds of their students. This, coupled with the continual stressing of the importance of a close association with their creator, instills in the young men of Salesian the high ideals of true Christian Manhood.

Salesian's treasurer, Father Elmer J. Orosz, O.S.F.S., also serves as Salesian's newly-appointed assistant principal. In addition to undertaking these administrative functions, Father also teaches American history to the junior class.

Father Joseph J. Molloy, O.S.F.S., ably serves as Salesian's athletic director. Besides his duties in the sports department, Father Molloy teaches drafting I and II and religion to some of the sophomores.

Complete liberal education

Mr. James Moran teaches economic geography to a few of the senior classes and has charge of the sophomores' modern world history course. Mr. Moran possesses a fluent knowledge of the modern French language, an invaluable and in teaching history.

Father Salvatore A. Sorro, O.S.F.S., moderator of the Dad's Club, teaches Latin to upperclassmen. In addition to his classroom activities, he also regulates the school library; moreover, Father has been appointed director of liturgical affairs for the sophomore class.

Mrs. Jean Barnes maintains the school's ever-growing library, keeping the files and index straight, making sure that the books and magazines are arranged properly and that a climate which is both pleasant and conducive to study is always present.

demands literature, both foreign and domestic

Father Francis A Kelleher, O.S.F.S., directs Salesian's exchange student program and teaches first, second and fourth year French. A former resident of France, Father is able to instruct pupils in many of the French customs.

Rev Mr. Thomas M Dubay, O.S.F.S., teaches freshman English French I and comprehensive reading. Mr. Dubay also serves as bookstore assistant and assistant moderator of the 1967 Saldet, where his duties include directing the photography department

During the 1966 football season, Mr. Miles Curne served as the head coach for the Knights. Mr. Currie also heads Salesian's varsity basketball team, teaches English to the sophomores and supervises freshman gym classes.

Father Edward F. Carlin, O.S.F.S., teaches English to all the seniors. A native of New York, Father also serves as director of liturgical affairs for the senior class in addition to his classroom responsibilities.

Rev. Mr. Robert Huss, O.S.F.S., freshman class moderator, has been assigned to teach freshman algebra and geometry to sophomores. Mr. Huss also serves as assistant athletic director and freshman football coach this year.

Director of liturgy for the freshman class, Brother Charles R. Dulin, O.S.F.S., also manages Salesian's program of audio-visual aids. Besides these duties, Brother teaches typing and freshman guidance.

Father Joseph J. Toner, O.S.F.S., Salesian's drama coach, teaches chemistry to juniors and seniors, and modern algebra to juniors. Father believes that the best way to learn a science is by assimilation of experimental knowledge.

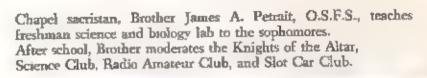

Having studied sociology and psychology, Mr. Stephen A. Pyenta is well versed in the studies of national problems and economic geography which he teaches to the scolors. At present, Mr. Pyenta is working toward his masters degree in History.

Salesian's public relations director, Father Thomas C. Kauffman, O.S.F.S., teaches biology to the sophomores. Father also serves as sophomore class moderator and advisor to the poster club and the Salesian Alumin Association.

Father Richard G. Ankenbrandt, O.S.F.S., Salesian's assistant treasurer, serves as director of Oblate ministry in the Detroit area. In addition to these duties, Father also teaches modern geometry and traditional trigonometry.

This year's Mothers' Club moderator, Father John J. Fuqua, O.S.F.S., has been assigned to teach freshman religion. Prior to his assignment at Salesian, Father had served as editor of the monthly magazine, De Sales World

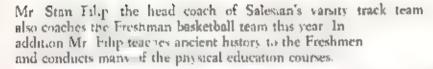

Director of liturgy for the jumor class, Father Leonard E. Sypinski, O.S.F.S., also teaches religion to the sophomore and junior classes. An avid bowler, Father directs his skills toward the improvement of Salesian's keglers.

Second to none, Salesian's responsible cafetena crew, consisting of Mrs. Carrie Hughes, Mrs. Addie May Mills, who is the head cook, and Miss Betty-Jo Mock, keep the students and faculty of the school well fed during the year.

Administration keeps things

maintaining our old building and its facilities

The task of maintaining the interior, as well as the exterior, environments of a large institution is quite a demanding responsibility. Mr. Carl Seehoffer has been with Salesian for the past four years, serving as the assistant maintenance engineer on the three to twelve shift.

Brother Paul V Spaeder OSFS is Salesian's superintendent of maintenance Together with his maintenance engineer. Wr Leo Fleury, Brother keeps the conditions of the school clean and healthful

Underclassmen are preparing to meet the challenge of modern living through zealous study

The anxious underclassman may sometimes become discouraged when he sees the years of studying that lay ahead of him. Oftentimes he sits and wonders if he will ever become a senior. Yet, the long drawn out days turn into weeks and weeks into months and months into years. Time is the element which finishes homework, completes tests, turns in the term paper, produces a report card, terminates a school year and makes a fun-loving freshman a serious-minded senior. The struggle that you freshmen, sophomores and juniors are entering into with your books, is a struggle for life. Men of every age have had to pass through the battle of the books. Sooner or later every man must face up to the challenge of learning. Your future in life depends on what you are doing with your mind at this very moment.

Mr. Robert Huss is in his first year at Salesian. He teaches four Freshmen sections the algebra they have come to love. His leadership brought the Freshmen a second-place float in the Homecoming competition. Besides being assistant Athletic Director, he was coach for Freshman football.

Wary Freshmen begin a new phase of their young lives as high-school men under the guidance and direction of the Rev.

Mr. Robert Huss, O.S.F.S.

Freshmen are considered "curios" to the rest of the school. They are regarded with inquisitiveness by the Juniors and Seniors. The Sophomores despise them because they remember all too well what they underwent in the past year. But Freshmen are an eager lot and hard to discourage. They return day after day to face the challenge of adjusting to the life of a high-schooler. After beginning school, Freshmen soon realize that they are no longer the attention-getters they were a year ago in the altogether different world of grade school, Now, every step taken must be carefully weighed, as not to interfere with someone in authority, and every word must be delicately screened to avoid the wrath of any and every one. The life of a "Frosh" is, because of these things, very complex. He is being introduced to a totally different environment involving new fields at which to aim his interests. He will begin to learn a new language, the history of man will be minutely detailed for his mind to soak up like a sponge. He will begin to understand the intricate workings of the language he has spoken all of his life, and he will, in short, be embarking upon the most important phase of his life. What he does will determine his course in the next four years.

discussions develop a deeper understanding of English rhetoric.

"You're out of your mind!" is Robert Jenkins' reaction to the mark he has received from Mr. Dubay on his Freshman English test. Known far and wide for his reputation as a hard and merciless marker, Mr. Dubay is apparently living up to that name.

The Sophomore Class,
under the able leadership of Fr. Kauffman, has completed the second phase of its high school education

Of all the high school years, the sophomore year is seemingly the hardest and yet the happiest. It is a year that catches the sophomore between the freshman year of shyness and junior year of freshness. It is that intermedial stage that gives the student that realization of his own being, his individuality. He may make mistakes, but those mistakes mold and shape him into a true student and gentleman. Helping the sophomores of Salesian was their moderator Fr. Kauffman, who with the elected officers and representatives, kept his tribe aware of the various activities of the school in need of student support. Because of this effort on the part of their moderator and class officials, the "class of 1969" remained one of the best classes in the school. This was due to their support of school activities throughout this past year. But as sophomores are, ours were. They could often be heard shuffling up and down the stairs and rumbling through the corridors. They had schemes, plans, gags to "put one over on the faculty" and other students. However, their tricks were never cruel and were taken in stride by the faculty. In a different and trying year they found happiness. This was a typical sophomore year.

"Just one more year to go," is the cry of the class of 1968, And just one year to mature intellectually. physically, and spiritually. Just one year to prepare for the world. Through the instructions given to them they can develop intellectually. Through self-control and the readily available sacraments they can develop spiritually. Through the intramural facilities of Salesian, they can gam skill and strength. The inquiring mind is just as evident in the junior year as in any other. The magnitude of the question "why?" grows as knowledge grows. These inquiring minds are quenched by instruction and experimentation. As knowledge increases, so does the thirst for knowledge. Teamwork can easily describe the Junior Class, teamwork which teaches men to act and perform as a unit, vet to think as individuals. Enthusiasm and drive are two components of teamwork Through the efforts of individuals a group achieves a goal. The leaders of tomorrow are being trained in the classrooms of today. The class of '68 will be an integral part of tomorrow. Within these pages are faces of serious thought and mischief, faces you remember, and some you may not, faces striving to find meaning to life through the capacities of their minds, bodies, and souls. They are achieving their goal.

Romance languages create versatility in future graduates

Drafting — a challenging exercise in precision and skill involving the faculties of mind and body in such a way as to sharpen them

Robert Webb, a Junior drafting student, demonstrates both precision and skill in his mechanical drawings. Drafting demands both of these qualities and challenges the mind of any student willing to work with this exacting subject.

The athletic members of the intelligentsia, James Frankowski and Bob Levesque, have earned letters in football and basketball while maintaining 3.5 and 3.6 averages respectively. They are N.H.S. members and deserve to be called outstanding.

activities

Show me a student who spends some of his time working and helping others, and I'll show you a well-rounded, happy and unselfish individual. Students who practice long hours after school to make the football team, who give up their weekends to turn out a yearbook, who memorize innumerable lines for a play, and who volunteer to decorate the gym are those students whose high school years will benefit them more than any other years of schooling they may have. Here, as they grow into adulthood they are learning to work with and respect their fellow man. In forfeiting their time, they gain experience. In sacrificing their effort, they profit a personal satisfaction and self pride. In working with others, they acquire patience and understanding. These students accept a challenge to discover and unfold their talents.

Salesianites and guests enjoy the many different dances

One of the popular changes that was introduced at Salesian this year was the opportunity for the students to have young men from other schools attend as guests. "A Winter Knight's Dance", sponsored by the Sophomores introduced this novelty.

The Loreleis provided the music for this year's Homecoming Dance, marking the first time in Salesian's history that an all-girl band provided the music for a dance. Needless to say, this was also one of the most successful dances ever held here.

Roland Garcia and his date for the evening, Joyce Bernabi, seem to be enjoying the "Battle of the Bands" especially Roland since the old rule concerning sant coat and tie was relaxed at least for this occasion.

The eagerly awaited "Battle of the Bands" took place April 8th with The Shades of Sound winning top prize. The members are: Bob Golembieski, organ, Larry Hanba, rhythm gustar; Richard Del Grasso, lead gustar; James Carter, bass gustar, Art Garonski, drums.

Salesian and Dominican combine again to produce the spring

musical comedy,

Pajama Game

Many new friendships have begun, and old ones renewed as Salesian and Dominican High Schools joined to produce the musical Pajama Game. This was the second production between the two schools. Reverend Joseph Toner, O S.F.S., and Sr. Marie Timothy, O.P., were the co-directors. Mr. Larry Egan directed the orchestra, made up of Notre Dame and Dominican students. The title of the play is somewhat deceiving, Pajama Game really refers to the pajama industry. The setting was in a factory. The plot concerns itself with labor-management problems. Labor had requested a 71/2 cent raise; management denied this request. To complicate matters a bit more, the plant superintendent fell in love with the head of labor's grievance committee. The whole thing became quite interesting. Things worked out well, however, and the ending was a happy one. About seventy students were involved in the cast: twenty-four dancers and roughly thirty-five members in the singing chorus. The three male leads, played by Bill Valade, Mike Pardy, and Len Slazinski, were complemented by three female leads and a number of minor roles. With all this talent, Pajama Game was a sure success.

The six leads, Bill Valade, Sue Battani, Len Slazurski, Julie Schneider, Mike Pardy, and Pam Boney, are having a casual rehearsal on stage at Dominican High. These six put in a lot of time and hard work to help make Pajama Game possible.

Father Toner evaluates the progress of the dancers as they practice their routine. Dancing is no mean task as Paul Makar, Linda Petrol, Stan Kwolek, Peggy Connolly, Chris Sutherland, Carol Forgash, and Tom Tupaj can easily affirm.

Father Toner and Sister Marie Timothy were the co-directors of the spring musical, Pajama Game. The play was based on the novel Seven-and-a-Half Cents by Richard Bissel. The music and lyrics were penned by Richard Adler and Jerry Ross.

amasses impressive record of unprecedented achievement

Bro Rago, Student Council moderator, and President, Par Droste, look over the latest results in the compention for the Spirit Trophy. This yearly award gives a good indication of just how interested the students are in the activities of the school.

This year's Student Council, one of the hardest working in the school's history, has compiled an enviable record under an active president, Pat Droste, and an experienced moderator, Bro. James Rago. The Council has taken the minative in bringing to the school several activities which had been lacking up to this time. Included are the intramural bockey program, which now has sixty players on four teams; an intramural wrestling program; gym nights for each class; and class nights at the basketball games. The active support of the student body for athletic events has been increased through the efforts of the Council, "Alley Rallies" proved to be very effective in generating enthusiasm, on the student's own time, for the football games. Several ski trips to Mt. Grampian were organized and each was a success. The running of several dances, including the Homecoming Dance, a Battle of the Bands, and the Farewell Dance, was the responsibility of the Council. In addition to all these, a Spirit Trophy Compension was initiated. The class with the highest accumulation of points at the end of the year will be awarded the trophy. The point total is figured on participation in extra-curricular activities and school fund raising drives. Succeeding Student Councils will certainly be hard pressed to match the record of this dedicated group of students.

These four students, the officers of the Student Council, are one reason why the Council is so active. They have the mam responsibility for putting into action proposals which have been voted upon and approved by the assembly.

Brother Rago has organized Salesian's Second Annual Career Day by making countless telephone calls to hundreds of people. After the opening address by Mr. Sturts, Salaried Personnel Manager for G.M. spirit with a distinctive vigor

Parents who care made Salesian the great school it is Here at Salesian we are very fortunate. We have both an active Mothers' Club and a persistent Dads' Club. Our entire sports program is greatly dependent on the Dads' Club for financial backing. This year the varsity football team was equipped with the finest new helmets available, and future plans call for re-equipping the track team. Equally important is the Mothers' Club, which has financed most of Salesian's internal development. Early this year, Room Four was converted into the school's badly needed Chapel. With Father Grehl's full co-operation and the financial support of the Mothers' Club, the new chapel was completed two weeks after school re-opened in the fall, With the Mothers' and Dads' working together Salesian High School can't help but become a better place to learn, pray, and study.

Father Sarro and Mrs. Joseph Boisineau discuss the agenda for the might's meeting. Mr. Boisineau is the chairman of the Dads' Club's Board of Directors; he and Father work closely together to ensure the success of the endeavor.

The Board of Directors and their moderator, Father Samo, are the decision-making body of the Dads' Club. The Dads' Club is largely responsible for the financial backing of Salesian's sports program.

Sitting at his desk, Edward Boyd, Business Manager for the Saldet, is making out a list of unpaid ads. During the yearbook drive almost $10,000 passed through his capable hands. Ed is also in charge of the Index Staff.

Where is the yearbook room, please? Ah, here we are. I'd like to join the staff; is there anything I can do? Good! Paste-up, what's that? Now let's see: Where are the layout sheets? In the drawer? All right, where are the glue erasers? In the same drawer, eh? No. that's all right; I can find the blue pencils myself. Now let's see, I saw them around here somewhere. You say they're in the drawer? That is impossible! I've already looked - well, what do you know! There they are, right there in the drawer. Oh well, back to work. Say, I'm almost finished with this page, where do you put the finished layouts? I should have guessed; in the drawer! What do you mean I didn't clean the page; I know that there is a hole in the picture, but it couldn't be helped. Of course, I'll do it over - tomorrow; it's too late to do it now.

Despite the amazing efficiency of this year's staff, the Saldet of 1967 promises to be the biggest and best yearbook ever published

Salesian athletes realize the challenge of self discipline; it results in fair play and respect

sports

When a player on the football field is going to receive a pass or a man is at bat in baseball, a player must possess more than merely brute strength, fine co-ordination or remarkable speed. In his mind, he must know that if he catches that pass or hits the ball, he will have for himself a personal achievement. That the crowd will cheer or his friends will pat him on the back must not be his goal. That he, together with his teammates, sweat and struggle for victory is his goal. Also, in his will he must sincerely desire to play his best because through sincerity discipline emerges and through discipline—fair play. This is what the coaches of Salesian drill into their players, that no one man wins a game, that personal achievement wants discipline of mind and that sincerity results in fair play and respect.

Catholic Central never had a chance on this rebound as Roland Mabin and Steve Baynai both are on the ball. The Knights stayed even with the semifinal-bound Shamrocks for a quarter, but then fell behind and lost, 95 to 74.

Basketball can no longer be considered a "minor sport" at Salesian, not after the kind of season that our squad had this year. The Knights were the underdog in every game they played, but refused to be a pushover. This is evidenced by the record. The team started the season with a bang by beating Detroit Cathedral 64 to 60. Then they lost to Austin by just two points, 71 to 69 in a heartbreaker. In the only meeting with U. of D. the Cubs barely won, 61 to 59 But then the Knights came back to trounce Cathedral again, 54-47, and to avenge the defeat to Austin by frying the Friars 52 to 49. In the Annual State Tournament, Salesian defeated highly touted St. Anthony 62 to 57, thereby attaining the coveted distinction of District Finalist. In all the other games, the Knights were always in contention, until at least the final quarter. This year's basketball squad was the highest scoring in Salesian's history, averaging better than 62 points per game. This tremendous improvement over all previous basketball teams could not have happened without the capable leadership of Coach Miles Currie, who molded the Club into a working unit and inspired it to victory. Sparked by players such as all-league guard Bob Sabo, playmaker and captain Larry Janness, high scoring Jim Frankoski, and rebounder Roland Mabin, the Knights fought for every point and never gave up.

Steve Baynar drives in against De La Salle and is fouled in the process. Steve put in two foul shots, but Salesian needed 11 more as the Pilots came from behind in the last quarter to overpower the Knights, 79 to 68.

Salesian's Jim Frankoski is fouled in a great attempt to score on a "tip-in" against Catholic Central. Jim Put in both free throws to tie the score at 34-34, but the Knights couldn't keep the pace and never caught up afterwards.

Salesian's sophomore forward, Don Charuba, displays perfect form as he leaps up for a routine 'lay up' as number 55. Mike Paradise, anxiously awaits the rebound that never came "Two mure for Salesian."

Salesian's Junior Varsity

Salesian's sophomore guard, James Resmer, finds an opening in the Detroit Cathedral defense after an effective "pick" is set up by another hustling sophomore, forward, Kevin Williams.

emerges from tough fourteen game season

Driving through the Cathedral defense is Michael Paradise, the only junior on the J.V. squad. Mike has led the Salesian "5" throughout the season with consistently fine playing. Similar playing was displayed by the entire J.V. team.

In the past Junior Varsity basketball here at Salesian had been very ill. There was very little student interest in it and soon it became a camp for those who didn't hold their own on the Varsity club. This vear, however, a cure was found in coaches David Lynch and Robert Huss, O.S.F.S. These men dedicated themselves to the task of producing a squad of young men who were interested in playing J.V. basketball. They started with a core of players from last year and built up to a team of thirteen men enthused with the idea of playing basketball for Salesian and to represent themselves and their school to the best of their ability. A little unsure and cautious at the start of the season, they suffered the bitter taste of defeat. As time went on, however, they gained confidence, experience, and skull. Interest in the team spread because their brand of basketball was new and exciting. The team ended the season without a victory but they also finished it with a feeling of pride and a broader knowledge of basketball. They had good reason to be pleased and proud for they replaced ordinary J.V. basketball with a new, spirited form of basketball.

With the hustle and sharp shooting of Erme King. Tom Sarosi, and Gary Dyeio and the basketball "know how" of Coach Stan Filip the Freshman basketball team gave the "Fighting Knights" fans real cause to look forward to next year with high hopes.

The sure hand of Terry Burney starts the ball on its' way for another two points for Solesian. Sure fire accuracy such as this enabled. Terry to cop nonors as Salesian's highest scoring Freshman of the year with a total of one-hundred ninety-two points.

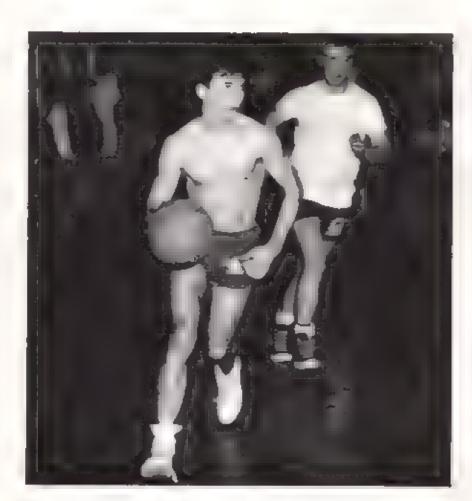

It is one of those rare occasions as Ernie King seems to have let a low flying Pilot from De La Salle out tump him, seventy two points sent through the hoop by Ernie made him the fourth highest scoring Freshman.

Tom Sarosi lets fly with the ball and the Freshmen gremlins have another reason to let the rafters ring (but not too loudly or our sturdy ceiling may never quite recover) and let the rest of the student body know "the Freshmen are coming".

Mike Williams of the championship Sophomore team outjumps an aggressive Matt Garrick in the late stages of the game. Ray Begley and Joe Reardon stand by ready to move in where the action is should the opportunity present itself at any moment.

Taking a day off from pitching, Larry Janness fills in at third base. The Notre Dame runner soon found out what has long been known here at Salesian, Larry is capable at either position and a mainstay of the club.

With a terrific cut Larry Janness sends the ball winging to left center and another extra base hit for Salesian. With some dynamic foot work on Larry's part and a little slipshod work on the part of U of D's shortstop, Larry eventually scored.

After holding the runner close to first, Chet Tyl charges in to fill the gap between first and second. A Senior, Chet has been another consistent man in the field and with the stick for the Knights nine for the past two years.

John Hathaway checks his swing before taking his stroke.
His concentration and planning paid off well in the form of a 326 yard drive, placing him on the green for a two stroke lead over all of the opposing forces.

The team doesn't seem to be very optimistic about the impending outcome of Patrick Droste's putt. However, despite the forboding omens of a misty day and cheerless faces, Pat managed to sink the ball for a two stroke lead over his teammates in a practice game.

fighting Knights rough it

Scores do not always tell the whole story, as our ball club demonstrated through the 1966 season. Our Knights plunged into the tough Central Division schedule a small, inexperienced team with a massive job ahead of them. They opened the season against a well trained team of veterans, the Brother Rice Warriors. After a rough first half, our club came back, waging a furious battle in the third and fourth quarters. This turned out to be prophetic. During the exhausing schedule the Salesian "11" were defeated on the scoreboard at times, but never were they beaten on the gridiron. Every minute of every game our men continued to give their all. This spirit prevailed throughout the season. Our team was by no means unique in its football talents, but as far as attitude towards each game and their performance on the field were concerned, it was exceptional. The Knights met every opponent with the ardent desire to win; they "hit" every opponent with every ounce of strength they had in an effort to conquer. Thus emerged a group of boys rapidly learning to be men.

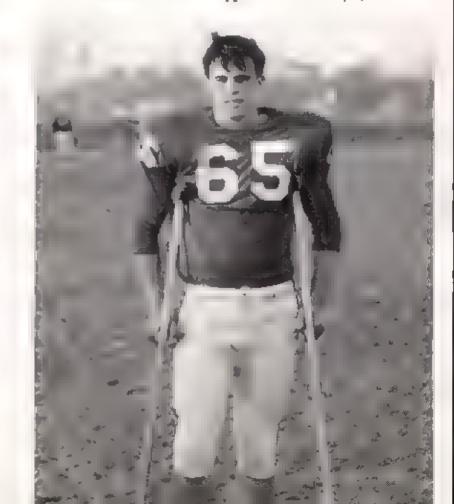

Salesian quarterback, Jim Frankoski, scrambles once again . . . his elusive running and deceptive ball handling kept Salesian's offensive moving. With this year's experience behind him, Jim should have a fine season in '67.

John Chikos's sprinting efforts are cut short by a vicious Austin linebacker. John, the team's co-captain and a fine performer, was an experienced asset to the club. Unfortunately, he was sidelined with an injury early in the season.

A leg injury in the De La Salle game cost Salesian the services of its fine center and co-captain, George Boisneau. George spent the remainder of the season on crutches, but he never failed to offer his support to his fellow players.

Head cosch Mr. Currie and backfield cosch Mr. Urban prepare to send in a substitute. Lack of depth this year was a problem, but when called upon, our back up men performed in the true Salesian spirit Salesian's aggressive defensive squad, led by Tom Pastula and Chris Bohn, zeros in on the Notre Dame fullback. Fine efforts such as these subdued the dangerous Notre Dame ground attack. In this game the defensive line was the dominant plus factor.

Salesian's new mentor brings back "spirit of the game"

Fr. Molloy, Mr. Huss, and Fr. Grehl reflect the bleak outlook in our ballgame with U. of D. High's Cubs. These faithful cohorts of our club stood by the team, offering their encouragement and consoling them in their defeat.

Coach Currie leads Knights through painful revamping

Salesian's latest turnover of athletic coaches brought to our school a fine veteran of many football campaigns, Mr. Miles Currie, as head coach. Assisting Mr. Currie were Mr. Urban, as the backfield coach, and Mr. John Vaccaro, as defensive advisor. These men offered many years of experience and a desire to instill a true dedication to football in both the players and the school. To some, Coach Currie's first season was an utter disaster; however, it was evident to those present, that this was not the internally torn and externally deserted team of old. This season, the ball club, supported by the students, fought the battle, reaped the rewards, and weather the defeats. This commendable attitude, the prospect of many capable players, and an enthusiastic coaching staff, spell "success" in Salesian's athletic future.

New season

The new look at Salesian fails to produce a winner

Much has been said about this year's football squad. Many have harped upon its poor showing, its inexperience and mistakes. As a final note in the epitaph of this year's season a few words should be said about the seniors, most of whom concluded their football careers this year. First of all our co-captains John Chikos and George Boisineau, although disabled most of the season, these young men performed well, and set a fine example for the younger players. Paul Makar, Louis Wojtowicz and Stan Williams were our senior backs whose running efforts kept the Salesian offense alive, Norm Novelly, Doug Balutis and Sam Gant, are three seniors who blocked very consistently on the strong side. At split end we had the capable hands of Roland Mabin and Greg Huddas Huddas, a late comer, did a fine job and Roland, a tough, aggressive ballplayer, often sparked our defensive unit. On the weak side of the line we had Abe Aziz, a guard whose performance earned him All-City honorable mention honors. Also opening holes on this side of the line was kicker, tight end, Chris Downey, who together with Abe, turned the weak side of the Knight's line into the strong side. These men were not outstanding stars but they were good players, and they were so because they had the desire to play and a great deal of pride in themselves.

The victousness of the Austin game is reflected in this bruising tackle made by Sam Gant and Paul Makar on an Austin player after he had fielded a Salesian punt. Although the Krughts hit hard, they still came out on the short end.

After the "snap" Jim Frankoski prepares to putch the ball to Stan Williams. Due to the effective blocking on the line, the timing of the quarterback and the powerful running of Williams, this play netted a good five yards — teamwork once again

seniors

As seniors we approach the closing days of our memorable life here at Salesian. We will walk through these hallowed halls for a last time wherein our voices, our laughter and our cries are forever buried. With friends we have known for so long we will sit in the classrooms for one final session. We have studied together, lunched together, played sports together and prayed together. But soon our days at Salesian will be gone forever, never to be relived, only remembered. We owe a great deal to the Oblates who have taught us. They have given us courage, not complacency, and shown us that servility is not a sign of weakness. Their guidance and encouragement have prepared us for the problems and difficulties of life. Perhaps someday we will meet again at the crossroads of life and recall our memorable years at Salesian.

Candidates struggle for the

O.K. to lead Class of '67

The long September elections close, the campaigning ceases, the spirit posters are removed and the political battles for Senior class officers have been won and lost. The victors of the turmoil boldly emerge, ready to face the challenge that they had fought so hard to accept, the challenge that is now placed before them. Senior class President, Gerard Parent, Vice-President, Norman Novelly, Secretary, Lawrence Janness and Treasurer, Timothy Durkin, begin their long year of tactful arbitration, even-tempered influence and clearheaded planning with enthusiasm and deliberation. They learn that mediating between the two most aspiring factions of the school, namely the conservative, thoughtful faculty and the more liberal, active Senior class; has grave complications. Subject to scrutiny and criticism from all sides, these four young men soon realize their full duty as officers; they must typify the true Salesian gentleman, for they represent some of the school's best leaders.

Working hand-in-hand with the Senior class officers, the class moderator, Father Coyle, is instrumental in the mapping out of the Senior activities of 1967. With long years of experience and personal know-how, Father helps guide Salesian's finest.

Addressing the entire student body assembled in Holy Rosars Church for Father Zurack's Mass, Father Grehl explains the religious vocation in terms of diligent study, great sacrifices, and a complete surrender to one's Creator.

"Sell what thou hast and give

Thus Christ instituted the Holy Eucharist to sustain that spiritual flame which was animated by the graces received through Baptism.

it to the poor, and come follow me"

"I will go unto the altar of God; to God Who gives joy to my youth."
Thus the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is begun by Father Zurack, who graduated from Salesian and returned after ten years of intensive training, a priest and a representative of Jesus Christ.

A religious vocation is a call given to special souls by Christ to follow Him in the priesthood, the brotherhood, or the sisterhood. It is given to those who have the courage to leave all things for Christ and who are strong enough to take up their cross and follow Him. The particular vocation to be an Oblate means, first of all, to be a religious - to follow Christ and to serve Him by the observance of the three yows of poverty, chastity, and obedience. The note that distinguishes this life from other religious orders is the doctrines of St. Francis de Sales. Thus an Oblate mission is to live and spread the teachings of St. Francis de Sales by preaching the Salesian message; by teaching it in schools and colleges; and finally by missionary efforts in South America and South Africa. Father Zurack, a graduate of Salesian High School, Class of 1956, is the fourth such graduate to reach the priesthood and join the Oblate priests and brothers in spreading the Salesian doctrine.

With the annointed hands of a priest of God, Father Zurack offers up the precious blood of Christ for the intentions of the students of his former high school. Now, an ordained priest, Father prays each day for the well-being of all.

As a priest, Father was responsible for the expert guidance, spiritual growth, and internal renewal which has typified the Salesian spirit. On the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, Father admin sters Holy Communion to his father at a special Mass commemorating that event.

A boy will become a man only when a man is needed. Such a person was Charles Robert Trescott, a Salesian graduate of the Class of 1964. He was not an exceptional student, yet his name and memory shall always be remembered in the prayers and aspirations of his former teachers, classmates, and friends. While attending Salesian, Charles was a U.S. Naval Reservist, and, after graduating, he enlisted as a medical corpsman and was soon sent to the Viet Nam front What makes a man perform an heroic act? If you would have asked Charles, he probably would have been unable to tell you. Heroism is sometimes a hidden quality, intrinsic to the individual, one which only extreme circumstances are able to bring forth On May 3, 1966, while accompanying an 18-man marine patrol. Leaving his cover to attend the two injured men, he was fatally wounded while carrying them to safety. Because of his courage, selfless devotion, and innate love for his fellow man, Charles was awarded the Silver Star posthumously in a ceremony conducted at the Dearborn Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center. Dom Michalik will readily agree that everyone's favorite period is lunch. Besides providing needed nourishment, it furnishes a welcome refreshing break from the routine of classes and the chance to simply sit down and relax

Instead of announcements and general notices, the bulletin board in the lobby serves as the center of various long-term displays and exhibits of interest to students and faculty alike. Brother Charles does an excellent job of keeping them timely and artful.

Students make use of all available means to disrupt dreaded monotony of dull classroom routine

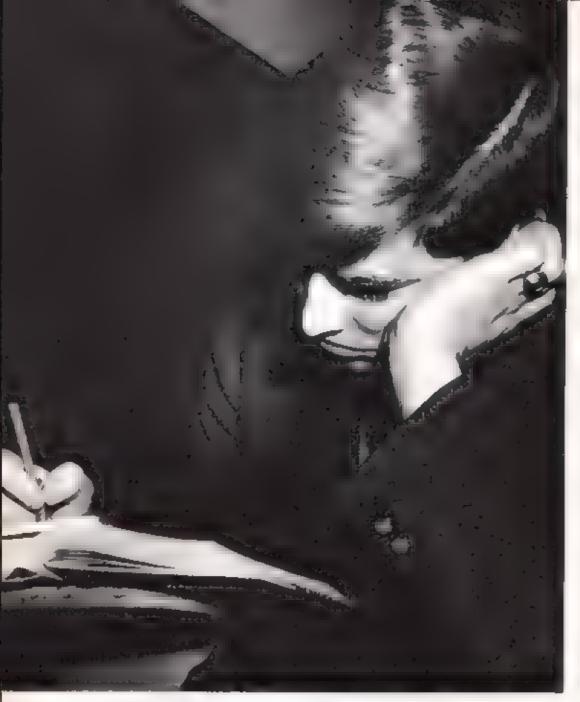

Ted Dwojak has obviously found two friends to wait for him as he cleans out his locker after baseball practice. Just leaving after the intramural games were Dennis Killeen and Doug Kuhnlein, who, by the looks on their faces, have won their game.

"But look, it has to be Fr. Svpinski", argues Bob Mrowka,
"who else would they portray with such size and a build like that". Ken Karpslis is either amused by Bob's statement or by his very serious approach to the argument.

Lou Wojtowicz and Norm Novelly attack defenseless Paul Terzano as a preliminary to engaging in the intramural program. Due to such diligent preparedness, the finals of the intramural program involved other sections.

The English literature of the 17th century can hold a great deal of symbolism and hidden meaning if one knows how to go about finding it. The solemnity of the poem is reflected in the face of the reader as Thomas Abraham mults over John Milton's II Penseroso.

Father Carlin holds firmly to the belief that poetry must be read aloud in order that the, often difficult phraseology may be more meaningful to his students. Here, Jerry Csokasy recites a famous 16th ballad for the class.

"Boy, this is some test, Father." Timothy Delong tells Father Carlin as Father passes by during an English exam. It is a surprising fact to discover that although we speak every day and use our language extensively in reading and writing, most tend to forget the finer points, the fundamentals of our grammar.

Jerry Csokasy and Barry Bywalec take notes on what Father Sarro is saying to Mike Coats. They realize the importance of attention at this point, since Father has been known to give much valuable information at such times.

Father Sarro leads a debate on the ments of Vergil's style. Jerry Csokasy, Mike Coats, and Walt Rudzinski list various points of view, while Father seems to have detected a humorous aspect of one of the arguments.

and stimulates creativity

Father Sarro and Walter Rudzinsk, discuss Mercury's journey to Carthage. Father feels that free discussion on the context of the poem is the best way to understanding, and that this creates interest in the student.

Norm Novelly seeks Father Sarro's assistance with the meter of Cui mater media sese tulit obvia silva. Norm seems convinced that the first foot is a spondee but Father claims that it could also be an anapest.

John Cowall seems to be searching for a word to fill one of the blanks on Father Kelleher's vocabulary quiz. Father believes that the best way to insure the students' knowledge of vocabulary is through frequent testing.

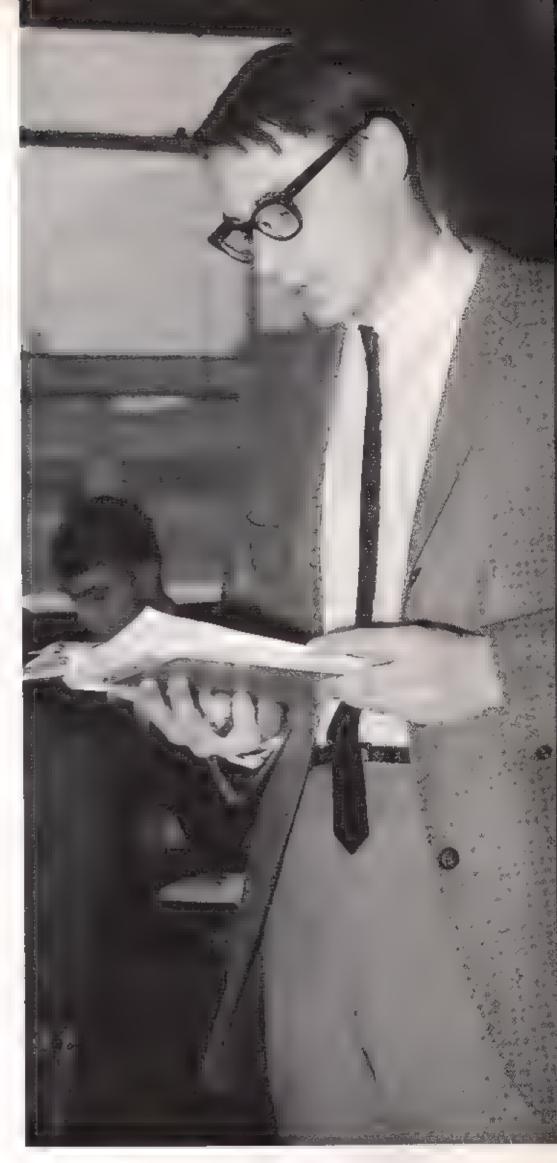

Father Kelleher assists Paul Makar in conjugating se promener. Reflexive verbs are one of the most difficult aspects of French grammar, but Father's expert guidance resolves most of his students' basic complications.

Chris Downey contemplates placing accurate accent over a word. Since his final decision might affect both the pronunciation and the meaning of this particular word, he wishes to ensure the accuracy of his judgment.

of France and Spain

Ted Szykula reads a passage in Spanish, hopeful that his rendition coincides with Father Malloy's. Because of the necessity of exact pronunciation, Father sets very demanding standards for his students, exacting from them precise phrasing.

Writing Spanish is often more difficult than speaking it, as Tom Cislo readily testifies. Here, grammar, vocabulary, and spelling combine to give the best gauge of the student's skill. Needless to say, Father Malloy is very fond of written exercises.

by Salesian's new public speaking and journalism courses

In preparation for the speech which he is to give tomorrow, Stephen Baynar copies down a few ideas dictated to him by Mark Blask. Both members of the public speaking class, these young men pool their knowledge to meet a deadline set by Father Bradley, the instructor.

One of the biggest obstacles which face all public speaking students is that which tests their ability to read well without any preparation. Reading extemporaneously from his English hterature book, Gary Manikowski practices the techniques acquired through training.

understanding for world problems through open discussion

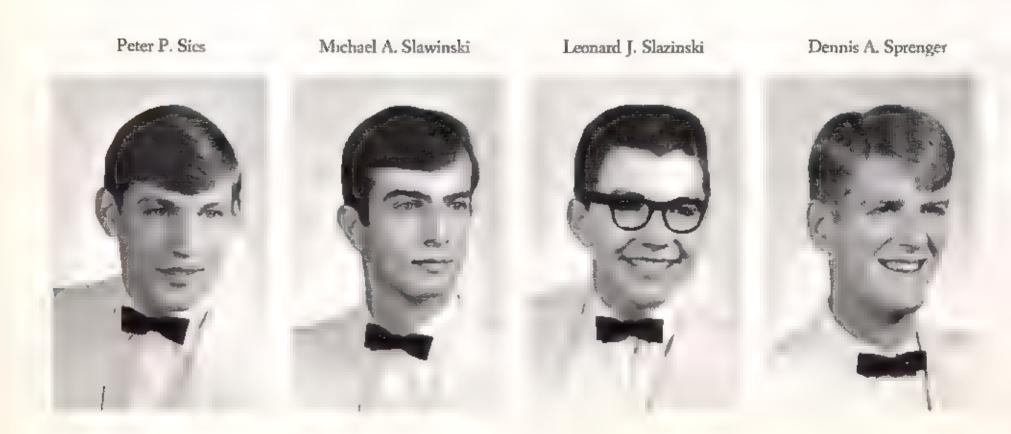

Familiarization with the topography of foreign countries makes a study of the difficulties of such world counterparts more meaningful to the students. Mr. Pycnta points out a number of noted Chinese scaports to Ronald Koss.

Eyes glued on the copy, Tom Ribits, Jerry Fellrath, and Abe Aziz take a two-minute timed writing. Brother Charles employs frequent timings to measure his students' progress in the development of speed and accuracy.

Brother Charles demonstrates the correct operation of the paper bail release lever to Bill Valade. Brother feels that his students should learn the proper use of all the features and devices which are included on modern typewriters.

Charles Boczek moves the carriage of his typewriter to the extreme left before making an erasure. This is very important, since it prevents any of the particles from the eraser from falling into the mechanism of the typewriter and causing it to jam.

Need a break or some information? Library is the answer

Using an abundance of reference books and magazines, Michael McGraw and Gary Puczkowski decide to add a little class to their history homework. During the morning hours, the library is crowded with students having similar objectives.

With the new librarian, Mrs. Barnes, ensuring that silence is, and remains, golden, Edward Brosky takes advantage of the peace and quiet and jots down a few references before he leaves school. All things are kept in order so that books and study aids are easily found.

Many times, students simply retreat from the bustling hallways and corridors to get in a few extra minutes of study, which all students need at one time or another. Here, Michael Ugorcak reviews for an English exam during his lunch study.

For a place of such limited dimensions, Salesian's library is surprisingly well stocked with material interesting to everyone. In some spare moments, Terrence Hedges utilizes the magazine rack, usually employed to kill time or relax wears students.

Salesian rolls out red carpet in welcome as

Each year the Oblate Vocational Director, the Reverend William Stahl, O.S.F.S. comes to Salesian to discuss the prospects of a future in the community with any student who wishes to speak with him. Father is also the Oblate Assistant Provincial.

Even with all the grave responsibilities accompanying the title of Oblate Provincial of the Toledo-Detroit Province, the Very Reverend William J. Ward, O.S.F.S., is always able to find the time to visit most of the schools under his guidance.

Sixty-seven Saldet recognizes outstanding

Paul Stach, Hamtranck's only National Ment Finalist, is editorial director of Knight Lights, which he represents in Student Council. An N.H.S. member, he also writes for the Saldet Pat Droste, right, president of Salesian's most progressive Student Council in its history, has been one of the driving forces behind the spirit committee.

Barry Bywalec is Editor-in-chief of the 1967 Saldet, the largest vearbook that Salesian has ever published. Barry has imnovated many new changes in this year's edition through unlimited time and work. Rick Bryce, bowling letterman, furnishes most of the art work for the Poster Club and Knight Lights, where, as art editor, his clever editorial cartoons and illustrations can be seen.

qualities of seven distinguished seniors

Rich LaGrandeur, head writer for the Saldet, has an index of 3.8. An N H S member, Rich has won several awards in various forensic tournaments.

Walter Rudzinski maintains a cumulative index rating of 3.7. A National Honor Society member, Walt enjoyed the opportunity to spend his Junior Year in Spain, taking accelerated courses as an exchange student. Walt has been an honor student throughout his high school career.

Tom Abraham, National Honor Society member, maintains a total point average of 3.8. Besides his duties as head of the Saldet paste-up crew, Tom represents Senior A in the Student Council.

Taking time out from the festivities. Christine Hnizdo chats with Semor Class Moderator, Father Coyle, about the evening's progress. Both seem to be having a good time, which could be said for everyone present.

The friendly atmosphere which prevailed throughout Cobo Hall's River Room was a state that enveloped everyone. The chatter and jokes that circulated put all at ease. Here, couples sway to the calm rhythm of "Stardust" as the Prom neared a close.

Joyous occasion for the graduating class of 1966, as end of high school career draws to a close at Cobo Hall, May 13, Senior Prom night

"Let the good times roll", is key to festivities of Salesian's Junior-Senior Prom

Walk down the Senior halls; you can feel it. Listen in on the upperclassmen's conversation; you can hear it. Prom night is approaching. Excitement mounts. Each passing day marks twenty-four hours closer to one of the highpoints of any high school Senior's life. Preparations are made early. The family car is washed and waxed. The tuxedoes are rented; hair is cut and trimmed, shoes polished. Each minute detail is given special attention. Everything must be perfect. Finally, look into the River Room of Detroit's Cobo Hall; you can see it. Prom night is here. The electrifying atmosphere of people in the midst of enjoyment. The young men of Salesian, dressed to the teeth. The elegantly formal gowns of their dates. The small talk that echoes throughout the ballroom. The music of Mike Krauss's Orchestra. Finally, the savory buffet served by George Roume! Caterers at the stroke of twelve. It was an unforgettable evening to say the least; an evening which Seniors will look back on with fond memories.

Continuous dancing can become quite a tiresome experience.
Just ask Stephen Baynai, or his date, Cheryl Autustine, who have decided to "sit this one out". The small talk among friends was an important contribution to the Prom's success.

The band did a superb job in making the evening the tremendous success that it was. Here, Gerald McGuckin, and his date, Kathy Rathwell, enjoy dancing to the slow, soothing cadence of Dionne Warwick's popular ballad, "A Message To Michael."

The Semor officers lead the assembly in singing The Star Spangled Banner From the left: Ed Klosterman, treasurer, Dave Watroba, vice-president, Mike Hoen, president, and Jim Moryc, secretary

The big moment has finally come: Gerald McGuckin receives his diploma from Father Ward, Provincial of the Toledo-Detroit Province. Father is assisted by Father McGoldrick, Detroit Superior, and Father Herkert, Principal of Salesian.

Keynote of Commencemen

Jse your past as the foundation for your future

The Very Rev. William J. Ward, O.S.F.S., confers the coveted Provincial-Medal upon Kenneth Wozniak. The award is given annually to the Senior whose life most closely resembles the spirit of Saint Francis de Saies, patron of the Oblates.

The Sixteenth Annual Commencement Exercises of Salesian Catholic High School began as the members of the Class of '66 filed down the main aisle of the Henry and Edsel Ford Auditorium past the proud eyes of parents, relatives, and friends. At 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 4, 1966, one hundred twentysix of Salesian's finest solemnly mounted the stairs to the stage; all seemed to sense that this was the last time that they, until now just a group of young men, would act together as the members of Salesian High School, Class of '66. In the principal address of the evening Mr. Linus J. Rausch stressed the importance of using previous accomplishments to build for the future. Mr Michael Hoen delivered the salutatory message; afterwards, Father Joseph J. McGolderick, O.S.F.S., Detroit Superior, and Father Charles H. Herkert, O.S F.S., Principal of Salesian, assisted Father William J. Ward, O.S F.S. in giving each Senior his diploma. Mr. Kenneth Wozniak delivered the valedictory speech; in it he stressed the closing of the school career and the embarkation on a new way of life.

Father Paul Grehl, moderator of the Brisson Chapter affixes the cordon of the National Honor Society to Mike Hoen, Senior Class president. This cordon distinguishes superior character, scholarship, leadership, and service.

Those members of the Senior Class who have won various types of scholarships rise as Father Coyle, Senor Class Moderator, reads their names. The most common award was the State of Michigan Competitive Scholarship, which twenty-two Seniors won.

SALESIAN'S NIGHT SHIFT

11 P.M. - 7 A.M.

Here's another better idea... now your finger does your foot work.

You're driving down the turnpike.

You lift a finger. Just one. And set the optional Automatic Speed Control on the turn indicator lever. Now you relax.

You don't keep your foot on the accelerator. You don't keep your eye on the speedometer. Automatic Speed Control controls your speed.

You control Automatic Speed Control.

Just set it...and go. Just touch the brake...

and it's released automatically.

Ford Motor Company has a better idea for turn pike driving. Now your finger does your footwork.

As a graduating senior, will you soon be seeking employment? If so, what kind of work? In what type of business? These are important decisions you must make

Of course, you want to work for a reliable firm that provides pleasant working conditions, good pay, and liberal employment benefits. You want to work with friendly people. But more than that, you want to know that your first job can prepare you for something better in the future. You have these advantages at the National Bank of Detroit.

There are many types of starting jobs at NBD. They all provide opportunity to learn and to advance. We'd like to tell you more about them.

Camp De Sales

ON VINEYARD LAKE

(In The Irish Hills of Michigan)
A CATHOLIC CAMP FOR BOYS

Every boy finds ample sources of recreation at Camp De Sales. The evening campfire is the climax of the day's fun and here the events of the day are recounted, stories are told, songs new and old are sung—and lifetime friendships are begun. Movies are shown several nights each week. Special events and contests are a part of the program. Under the direction of skilled instructors the boys learn sketching, woodcraft, Indian lore, amateur dramatics, clay modeling, photography and other interesting as well as useful, crafts and hobbies.

Conducted By
OBLATES of ST. FRANCIS de SALES
Camp Director: Rev. Daniel Earley, O.S.F.S.

This is the first Oblate high school in the State of Virginia. It will be the thirteenth secondary school in which Oblates teach. We are now teaching in eight States—Belaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, New York, Ohio, Michigan, and Utah.

You can help us open more schools through your prayers and donations for the education of our 300 Seminarians.

Devoted staff

The job of indexing the '67 Saldet, a tedious, but necessary task, was vital for the completion of the yearbook. Roland Garcia and Raymond Schmoke were responsible for the recording of all the people found in the yearbook, and they turned in a fine job.

Keeping track of all the money and ads turned in during the yearbook drive was no small chore, as Ed Boyd and Paul Stach found out on the first day of returns. Altogether, they counted and recorded over $9,600, the largest amount of money ever turned in during a drive.

Tom Abraham, head of the paste-up staff, co-ordinated the activities of all the members of the paste-up staff. A sensor, Tom has become quite proficient himself in setting down pictures and print

witness "growth" of their yearbook

By taking many of the sport pictures, Larry Lewandowski, a junior transfer student was of great assistance to the photography staff

Only a freshman, Steven Pardy shows remarkable aptitude with a camera The yearbook staff has great hopes for him in the future.

Although a member of the football team, Dan DuRoss still found plenty of time to devote his photographic skills for the benefit of the yearbook.

Misc Ostin pastes down a glossy. He must trim it so that it fits its assigned space exactly and their paste it in that space with mathematical accuracy. The slightest error committed in this process can have disastrous results.

Bill Valade and William Haller are measuring the page to find out where to place that picture down. This procedure requires an exactness which, in itself, makes this task difficult. Through much practice, however, they have become quite adept at it.

After slow start the '67 writing staff drags out its typewriters, dictionaries, and erasers to tell the story of a new Salesian High School

Leonard Slazinski and Michael Pardy, members of the yearbook staff of writers, work on a block of copy for the Sports section of the '67 Saldet. Because of Len's help Mike is becoming an experienced writer.

Without a doubt, the most fanatical writing team on the Saldet staff is that of Paul Stach and Rich (Ricky)

La Grandeur. Nobody knows how they did it, but they wrote both the Faculty and Senior sections of the book.

Paul Bolduc is typing the basic cutlines for his "Detective Story" layout, while Harry Melton checks the spelling of a word on the Science Club spread. Norm Novelly, in charge of introduction copy, stops to point out a typing error.

The production of the 1967 Saldet took a great deal of time, patience and skill. The staff worked long hours to perfect this year's book. However, there is a good deal more to producing a yearbook than just the ingenuity of the moderator and the staff. There are countless other persons who gave us their time and assistance. The help of the faculty in identifying members of classes and organizations was essential. Their kindness in permitting an often abrupt charge into their classrooms for a very important picture was also invaluable. The coaches gave us information about individual players and the scores of the athletic events. Mrs. Lorraine Suprunowicz was particularly helpful in checking out all the details of the finished layouts turned in for publication, and the other important details. To all who aided in this publication in any way, from the Principal down to the last freshman, and to our advertisers, boosters and friends, we take this opportunity to extend our sincere gratitude.

Barry M. Bywalec Editor-in-chief

We leave Salesian with a sincere debt of gratitude to the Oblates of St. Francis de Sales, four years of unforgettable memories, and a firm realization of the many difficult and notable challenges of life
